ISSUE 70

October 2024

Canning Arts Group thanks the City of Canning for its continued support.

This bi-monthly newsletter is distributed to members of the Canning Arts Group, and a limited number of printed copies are available from the office at Canning Arts Centre between 9.30 and 1pm weekdays.

Contributions from members are welcome.

Committee Roundup

Well here we are with spring upon us and wonderful sunny days. All the gardens are coming back to life and we are busy producing new art pieces getting ready for the sales in the coming months.

All our shelving has been installed in the students area and hobby room which has given more room to store students work, and our colorful stools are arranged in the pottery area making the area a little brighter.

Erin from The Art Trail has been keeping in touch with us and we have Sue from the committee who will be attending their meetings and keeping in touch with what is happening. We haven't heard too much of what is happening as yet.

Thank you to Chris Goldberg for all the organizing of the Canning Art Exhibition at the library, and to the members who have given their time, helping out with hanging and doing rosters. I hope some of our Artists sold their Art in the Exhibition.

We had a lovely morning tea today for Rosy, one of our very special members who has done so much for us, helping pottery teachers, doing children's classes, always ready to help with activities that are happening at the Art Centre. Best Wishes and happiness for your new adventure in Albany, I am sure you will get quite a few members catching up with you down there when they are passing by.

Thank you John for your fun night with your Paint and Sip, there was great music, plenty of laughter from our members and I was shocked to see my painting did resemble yours. Hopefully there will be more of these fun social events to enjoy.

The next couple of months are very busy with Cagstock coming up on the 5th and 6th of Oct. Don't forget all members are invited to come down and socialize while creating your art, it starts at 10am on the Saturday and goes until 4pm on Sunday, lots of fun. Please bring something to share for lunch and dinner.

Then on the Tuesday 5th of November, Hobby Day, there will be a lunch for the Melbourne Cup, come down and join in a sweep and watch the race, please bring a plate to share.

At the beginning of December we will have a big clean and set up for the Xmas sale and would like our members to help out at this time. We have a large membership so please come down and help out so it's not left to just a few. The Xmas sale is for all the members to participate in to sell their Art, so make sure you are there to clean and set it up.

Its that time of the year where we are all busy with exhibitions and making work for the sales, but do take some time to enjoy the lovely weather and I hope to see you at Cagstock.

Cheers Jill

Coordinators Corner

Hi Members,

Wow 2024 is running out fast! Term 4 classes start from the week commencing 7th of October and before you know it the end of year events will be upon us!

Some important dates for your calendar:

- All hobby days will finish up on the week ending 30th of November 2024
- The office will be closed from the 15th of December 2024 and will reopen from Monday 6th of January 2025. For access to the centre during this time, Members need to arrange a key through our key holders: Trish Ray – 0434 556 453, Chris Taylor – 0427 571 513, or Jill Archibald – 0407 995 649.
- All Hobby days will resume from the week commencing 6th of January 2025

Some other key dates coming up:

- We still have availability in quite a few of our Term class for Term 4, so check them out on the website and book now.
- CAGSTOCK is coming up this weekend from 10am Saturday 5/10/24 to 4pm Sunday 6/10/24 – come along and spend an enjoyable weekend at CAG full of Art and pottery.
- We have a new Beginners Oil Painting 5-week workshop commencing 23/10/24 – go to the website for details.
- A Paint and Sip night on Saturday 16/11/24 – see website for details.

In the coming weeks as we wind down 2024, we will be sending out re-enrolment emails for Term 1 2025, and also an email for renewing your membership for 2025. (Only current members will be able to renew their membership online – new members will need to complete the membership form and make payment through the office).

The wonderful committee is busy organising both the Christmas Sale of Works and the End of Year Exhibitions, so hopefully you'll have works ready to go for these events – more details to come on when we will need these by, in the Weekly Round-up Email.

Please also have a think about joining the committee in 2025. Without our committee the Canning Arts Group cannot exist. We are looking for a new Treasurer for 2025, so if you have experience in this area, the Committee would love to hear from you.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all members who have helped out during the year in any capacity. Your assistance even if it was a small task enables the smooth running of the place.

Mio and I will be taking a bit of time off in the next couple of months. I will be away from 14/10/24 to 27/10/24 and Mio will be away from 6/11/24 to 19/11/24.

That's all from us for this issue.... See you soon!!

Let's Talk Safety

Have you ever had a bit of a close call or near miss, and just avoided an accident big or small?

We don't want that to happen here at Canning Arts Centre, so here are just a few reminders to keep you and others safe and well:

- Be aware of spills and splashes and mop up any wet patches on the floor or surfaces straight away – even if you didn't cause the spill yourself.
- Use the wet floor signs to warn others of potential slipping hazards.
- Share the load and ask for help. Don't attempt to carry or lift heavy, or multiple items yourself.
- If you make a mess, clean it up, and return used resources to where they belong.
- Take care with where you leave personal items – bags left on the floor should be tucked away so not to cause a trip hazard.

Be creative, be safe and enjoy!

Kev and I went down to Margaret River for the Artists' Open Studios and managed to see over 40 artists in four days. The range of art varies a lot and it's always interesting to see different art forms. I found Wayne Cherrington's mosaic display in Augusta well worth the drive. Kerry Silby's sculptures were fantastic and I even managed to see Honor Denby who was a CAG member some years ago.

The Way We Are

by Hugh Mackay

Australia's leading social psychologist examines our society today and asks timely and urgent questions about its future

Life is messy. Relationships are complex. Outcomes are uncertain. Yet none of our differences—whether based on ethnicity, politics, religion, cultural tastes and preferences, or gender—are nearly as significant as the humanity we share.

Amidst our epidemics of loneliness, anxiety and depression, and the impacts of entrenched poverty and ubiquitous technology, The Way We Are examines the major trends that are shaking the foundations of the Australian way of life.

Drawing on thousands of interviews over a lifetime of research, Hugh Mackay, much loved and highly respected social psychologist, presents a compelling portrait of Australia today. He celebrates the march towards gender equality and explains the stubborn persistence of misogyny, the anti-social consequences of social media, the complex legacy of the Baby Boomers, and the 'fake wisdom' that guides too much of our thinking. Exploring the steady decline in religious faith and practice, Hugh identifies the many gods we continue to worship, and points to the positive role that dreaming can play in our lives. Though some of his observations may not be easy reading, Hugh's analysis is suffused with affection for our country.

Inspiring, provocative and powerfully argued, The Way We Are is the most important—and uplifting—book you'll read all year. It will encourage you to reflect deeply on the question: What kind of society do we want to become? (Amazon)

This was an interesting book. Some of the ideas were a bit uncomfortable to think about and Hugh covers many areas of daily life that we rarely consider.

Slow

by Meredith Gaston Masnata

The Philosophy of Simple Living explores the idea of slow living to find happiness by stepping away from the never-ending demands to constantly succeed and acquire more and more. It's easy to become caught up in frantically wanting, buying, and upgrading the things in your life.

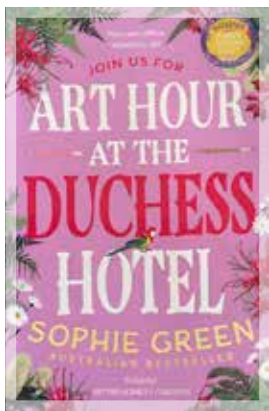

Constantly striving, we feel exhausted and deprived in the midst of great abundance. The philosophy of The Philosophy of Simple Living is about finding the freedom to be less perfect and taking time to enjoy the pure joys of a walk in the forest, sharing laughter with family, a personal moment of gratitude. Living a meaningful life that has connection, joy and beauty can be found in every moment. Slow, sweet living honors living with appreciation and reverence, and respects daily life as an inherently awe-inspiring and sacred experience. In a slower life we derive inspiration from meaningful conversations and fleeting daily encounters alike. We become mindful of what we are striving for in this life. Indeed, by living daily life more slowly, we come to understand what matters most to us – reconnecting with peace and joy. (Goodreads)

I love Meredith's books. They are beautifully illustrated and full of wisdom and suggestions for a fulfilling life.

Art Hour at the Duchess Hotel

by Sophie Green

Mornington Peninsula, 1999. Wife and now grandmother Joan has checked into the grand old Duchess Hotel to find herself again after thirty-five years of being who her husband and family have wanted her to be. Peninsula local and soon-to-be octogenarian Frances is distracting herself from getting old, and avoiding her self-interested son by escaping to the warmth of the Duchess where the hotel staff treat her like the person she still is. Meanwhile Frances's daughter, Alison, is trying to manage significant disruptions at home while hoping to finally prove to her mother that she's just as worthy of love as her brother. New to the Duchess, hotel maid Kirrily is feeling the weight of a lifetime of responsibility, struggling to balance bills and work and family, and keeping thoughts of how there must be more to life at bay.

With its old-world glamour, sprawling seaside grounds and air of possibility, the Duchess Hotel might just be the place to help the women rediscover who they are and bring some spark back to their lives.

When Joan decides to pick up a brush and start painting for the first time in decades, she inspires Frances and Kirrily - and, eventually, Alison - to join her. Over canvas, conversation and creativity they will learn that you should always hold onto your dreams and that new friends can give you the courage to live life on your own terms.

(Goodreads)

This novel is a good summer holiday read. Fairly predictable but the characters are relatable and the story line hooks you in.

Girl in Pieces

by Kathleen Glasgow

Charlotte Davis is in pieces. At seventeen she's already lost more than most people lose in a lifetime. But she's learned how to forget. The broken glass washes away the sorrow until there is nothing but calm. You don't have to think about your father and the river. Your best friend, who is gone forever. Or your mother, who has nothing left to give you.

Every new scar hardens Charlie's heart just a little more, yet it still hurts so much. It hurts enough to not care anymore, which is sometimes what has to happen before you can find your way back from the edge. (Goodreads)

I didn't realise that this is a book for young adults, and it is very gritty and shocking in parts. Yet it is positive in some ways and gives the message that there is always hope.

Recipe Corner

Yes cooking IS an art form

This is a place to share your favourite recipes

Chicken cooked in buttermilk with fresh tarragon

Ingredients

- 6 small chicken Marylands
- 1 onion, chopped
- 3 garlic cloves, chopped
- 1 cup white wine
- 1 tbsp chopped fresh tarragon
- 1 tbsp chopped fresh dill
- 1 tbsp honey
- 2 tsp hot English mustard
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 big fennel bulb, in wedges
- 1 cup peas

- In a baking dish, melt the butter on the hot-plate. Brown the chicken pieces. Then add the onion and garlic. Cook for a few minutes to soften onion.

- Add the wine, tarragon, dill, honey and mustard. Bring to the boil, and then simmer for a few minutes. Next stir through the buttermilk.
- Place in the oven, covered with foil and bake for 45 minutes at 180C. Remove the foil and add the fennel.
- Cook uncovered for another 15 minutes. Remove from the oven and add the peas. They should cook enough in the hot liquid.
- Serve garnished with extra tarragon or dill.

Broccoli Salad

With smoky bacon, tomatoes & chives 2 large heads of broccoli

Ingredients

- 6 rashers of smoked streaky bacon
- olive oil

Dressing

½ a clove of garlic

2 teaspoons Dijon mustard

6 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil

2 tablespoons white wine vinegar

- Use a small knife to remove the broccoli florets and cut them up into smaller ones. You'll be left with the stalk, so discard the thick dry base, then cut the remaining stalk in half lengthways and finely slice.
- Blanch your broccoli florets and sliced stalks really quickly in boiling salted water for 60 seconds. Drain it in a colander, then spread it around a clean tea towel to steam dry (this is important because it will help the dressing cling to the broccoli). Once completely dry, transfer to a serving dish.
- Finely slice the bacon and fry on a medium heat with a small splash of olive oil until crisp and golden, then spoon most of the bacon bits over your broccoli.
- Any leftover fat in the pan can be used in your salad dressing. Pour it into a mixing bowl, then peel and finely grate in the garlic. Add all the other dressing ingredients, season with sea salt and black pepper, and whisk.
- Halve, deseed and finely slice the tomatoes and chop the chives, reserving the flowers. Add to your broccoli and bacon bits. Dress it all really well, and check the seasoning. It's beautiful on its own or served next to any grilled or roasted meat or fish. (Jamie Oliver)
